Rolf wins CSE Award 2025!

Austrian eyewear manufacturer Rolf is thrilled to have received a prestigious award: the company has been honored with the renowned CSE (Certified Sustainable Eyewear) Award for the second time in a row!

With this success, Rolf is once again setting new standards in terms of sustainability and innovation. The CSE Award honors brands that demonstrate outstanding achievements in the areas of environmental friendliness, social responsibility and innovative materials. Rolf's bean eyewear from the Substance Collection meets these requirements in many respects. Made from bio-based materials and produced using 3D printing, they combine sustainability with long-lasting quality. Thanks to the innovative, patented joint design, they not only offer a resource-saving structure, but also exceptional stability - for glasses that last a long time and can be recycled or repaired at the end of their life cycle.

The awarded model impressed the jury and won in the Frames Europe category for "the innovative production process based on 3D-printing with biogenic material and the extreme simplicity of disassembling the glasses for component replacement or recycling at the end of life." (Source: Homepage CSE Award*)

About the Rolf. brand

Austrian eyewear brand Rolf produces high-quality eyewear from sustainable materials such as wood, stone, and beans. The glasses are handcrafted in Tyrol and are known for their clear, innovative designs. Rolf emphasizes the use of plant-based materials and sustainable production without compromising on quality and style. Their glasses feature the unique and patented FlexLock hinge which eliminates the need for screws, enhancing the durability of the eyewear.

Rolf. Naturally handmade.
